"PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF NEW YORK, Executive Chamber."—A

Dietrible calamity has overwhelmed the city of Galveston, in the State of Texas, hundreds of homes are desolated. Thousands of citizens dead. A still greater number without food or shelter, enduring untoid hardship and privation. At such times a generous people hastens to relieve the suffering and amelorate the distress of those so grievously affected, now therefore. I. Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of the State of New York, do earnestly request that the people of this State, with that spirit of generosity which has ever characterized them, hasten to contribute from their abundance to the relief of our fellow-citizens who are in such dire need. And I do hereby appoint the
